

"The hardest-hit organizations are those that work with residential programs, such as mental health and developmental disabilities, and also those that work with child care, where the centers must meet a staffing requirement, said Doug Sauer, chief executive officer of New York Council of Nonprofits..."

Read more